Item 5.02. Departure of Directors or Certain Officers; Election of Directors; Appointment of Certain Officers; Compensatory Arrangements of Certain Officers.

(e) On March 5, 2014, the Compensation Committee (the "Committee") of the Board of Directors of Activision Blizzard, Inc. (the "Company") authorized the payment of a cash bonus with respect to 2013 for Robert A. Kotick in an amount equal to 374% of his base salary, which base salary is $2.1 million.

The payment authorized was less than the maximum amount payable to Mr. Kotick in accordance with the terms of the award opportunity provided to him in March 2013 under the Company's 2008 Incentive Plan, which, as was the case for all of the Company's executive officers, was the maximum permitted under the 2008 Incentive Plan. When authorized, the Committee expressed the intent to use negative discretion to reduce that amount.

Historically, in exercising its negative discretion in determining the amounts actually paid to an executive officer of the Company under the 2008 Incentive Plan, the Committee would use the formula established for the executive in accordance with the Company's Corporate Annual Incentive Plan (the "CAIP"), which operates as a sub-plan to the 2008 Incentive Plan. Had the Committee used that formula to reduce the amount of the bonus payable to Mr. Kotick for 2013, his bonus would have been equal to 219% of his base salary.
